

The screenshot shows the Visual Studio Code interface. The Explorer sidebar on the left lists files in a project named 'Project-dictionary', including 'dict.js' and 'dict.html'. The main editor area displays the content of 'dict.js', which is a Node.js application using Express.js. The code defines an Express app, sets headers for CORS and Access-Control-Allow-Headers, and creates a GET endpoint for the root path that returns the word 'john' from a query parameter. The terminal window at the bottom shows the command prompt running 'node Dictionary.js' and displaying the message 'Server start on port: 2021'.

```
1 var express = require('express');
2
3 var app = express();
4 var port = 2021
5
6 app.use(function(req, res, next) {
7   res.header("Access-Control-Allow-Origin", "");
8   res.header("Access-Control-Allow-Headers", "Origin, X-Requested-With, Content-Type, Accept");
9   next();
10 });
11
12 app.listen(port, () => console.log("Server start on port: " + port))
13
14 app.get('/', (req, res) => {
15   var word= req.query.word;
16   // fetch the data and put it to res to send it back to client requesting it
17   var query= require('./word');
18   query.queryWord(word, res);
19 }
20
21 )
```

Terminal Output:
